

BOYS SWIM DOWN HELL GATE

SIX MILES DONE IN 1 HOUR
24 MINUTES 20 SECONDS.

Out of Fifteen Boys of Volunteer Life Saving Corps Who Started Only Three Gave Up—Steamboat, Ferryboat and Schooner Veer Off for Lads in Water.

Fifteen of the young volunteer life savers who keep a vigilant eye all summer upon the East River waterfront assembled yesterday morning in a small blue painted portable shack at East River and 100th street and after being dabbled with grease and oil were called to order by Commodore Longfellow, who rules the corps in this city. They were to swim through Hell Gate.

The commodore announced that on account of a miscalculation in the run of the tide the boys would have to journey over to North Beach and swim all the way down through the Gate, instead of swimming up as had been planned. Everybody was distinctly in favor of swimming with the ebb tide from North Beach down to 100th street, and so the greased contestants clambered into launches and dories, arriving at the Williamsburg Yacht Club on North Beach just as the tide turned.

At 11:20 the first pistol shot sounded over the noise of voices and the yelling and whistling of the rowers. It was the signal for all hands to get ready for the start. Four minutes later the small cannon which had been mounted upon the upper veranda of the yacht club went off with a boom. Instantly the swimmers leaped from the dories which carried their trainers, splashing in the water like a school of bewildered porpoises. They headed out through Flushing Bay, which was becalmed to the semblance of a lake.

Their course directed by the judges' boat, which carried the newspaper men and others, the swimmers kept on through the bay and were rapidly swept along toward Berrian's Island, a small sandy tract of land to the north of Astoria. The first man to be stricken with cramps was Fred McKay, a life saver from the Sixty-fourth street station. The dory in which his trainer had been following him swept alongside and McKay, who seemed in a bad way, was picked up. Charley Flynn of the Harlem station, who had been progressing fast, veered out soon afterward and went down once off Berrian's. He was hauled out by his trainer, Billy Hanlon.

Having been nearly three-quarters of an hour in the bay, the leaders were now hardly 200 yards from the black spindly light east of the North Brother Island lighthouse. The stragglers were a good mile back when the first six men were carried rapidly around the spindle light which marks the steamship course down the East River into Hell Gate. The red spindle gleamed on the sunken meadow now appeared right before those who were well in front.

The swimmers were scattered at this point by the current which carried sweeping out of Flushing Bay down the East River. Some were over toward the Astoria shore, others in midstream and a trio were heading back toward the Sound. The sound steamboat Bridgeport, coming from the Sound, had just passed the meadows, when the swimmers were pulled around by the Hell Gate currents. The skipper of the Bridgeport slowed down and changed his course from the Astoria side to the Sound side, the Astoria side to avoid running foul of the swimmers.

The ferryboat Queens closely followed the Bridgeport, and off the starboard side of the ferry a full rigged schooner, the Hungarian, which was beating her way down the Gate, kept changing her course from one shore to the other. She barely escaped being run down by the swimmers, which kept her men blowing long and angrily at the skipper of the Hungarian. Coming up the Gate was the steamer Howard, carrying a full cargo of lumber. When these boats passed the swimmers Hell Gate was rough and boiling from the small sea kicked up by their propellers.

However, only one man came to grief. He got caught in a treacherous sea near Little Hell Gate off Ward's Island. He was Tommy O'Brien, mascot of the Yorkville team. Tommy is only 14 years old and is one of the youngest swimmers in the corps. He surely thought, he said later, that he was doomed for Davy Jones, and let out a piercing cry that quickly brought his trainer, Edward Kuyveke, over to him.

Out of the fifteen that started only three gave up, and the last man to arrive was Willie Bratton, who swam out to one leg and managed to arrive two hours after the rest had finished. Willie, while not a very good swimmer, went about things slowly.

The excitement in the Gate had now shifted from the rear to the front, where the swimmers were ploughing along and neck and neck. About a quarter of a mile behind them six others also kept fighting off the current and surging waters. The four in front were Auerbach, Ott, Sauer and Halin and Jack Gilday.

In the ferment near Ward's Island they fought desperately to start a pace. Ott, the winter of the swim last year, is a big strapping fellow. He kicked about and goaded the three other boys. They went to the right of Hogback, the water beat into their faces and rolled them around. The four would try different strokes. None of them seemed to be able to leave the others behind.

On the pier about half a mile from them the crowd which had congregated started yelling and calling out to the swimmers. On by the commotion, they all started with what seemed like a stronger effort. Here was that Johnny Auerbach of the Hell Gate division with a splendid overhead stroke started ahead with an amazing burst of speed. He gradually drew away from the three others. He finished the swim first and was followed by Ott, Sauer, Halin and Jack Gilday.

Gilday, who came fifth, two years ago swam the same distance in 1 hour and 22 minutes. Auerbach's time was 1 hour, 24 minutes 20 seconds, which is not record time, but is good. Gilday's time is the record for the swim, which is about six miles distance. The order in which the swimmers arrived was:

Swimmer	Start	Finish
Johnny Auerbach	11:24:15	12:48:25
Peter Ott	11:24:15	12:51:50
Joseph Sauer	11:24:15	12:58:05
William J. Halin	11:24:15	12:59:10
Jack Gilday	11:24:15	13:02:10
John J. Sweeney	11:24:15	13:05:00
Paul Kuyveke	11:24:15	13:05:15

The others who came later were Joseph Enler, Joe Bergen, Willie Bratton and John McCauley. Auerbach said that he did not experience any difficulty in the swim, and asked for something to eat when he reached the shore. He was given a gold medal, Ott a silver one and the next three bronze medals. Auerbach, who came first, is one of the Yorkville men and is the first-time swimmer in a long swim. He is of German extraction, and after the swim made ready to go to a ball game.

SHOT IN BUFFALO STREET.

Young Man Found Dead May Be Yale Sophomore—Another Ran Away.

BUFFALO, Aug. 21.—A young man was found shot through the head in Delaware Park near the buffalo paddock at 6:30 to-night. As two boys approached the body they saw a man running away.

The wounded man was put in an automobile and taken to a hospital, where he died four hours later. He did not regain consciousness. There was nothing on his person except a card which bore the name "Ralph Elliot Coleman, No. 238 Durfee street, New Haven, Conn., Yale College."

There is a Yale sophomore of this name, whose home is at Saranac Lake, it is learned. The dead man is about 24 years old, fair and weighing 180 pounds.

A 38 Colt revolver was found beside the body. The Buffalo police attach little importance to the fact that the man was seen running away, as the policeman called by the two boys reports that a strange man had dashed up to him a minute before shouting that he had seen a man shoot himself.

The policeman let this man slip through his fingers in his haste to reach the body. There was money in the dead man's pockets. His clothing was good, but well worn.

HIS FIANCEE FOUND INSANE.

Woman Himself Was Once a Nurse in Poughkeepsie Asylum.

Edward Smith, once an attendant in the Hudson River Hospital for the Insane in Poughkeepsie, reported to the Coney Island police on Wednesday morning that the woman he is engaged to marry, Mrs. Margaret Close, who was a nurse in the hospital with him, had disappeared from her room in the Prospect Hotel on Surf avenue. They had resigned their places in the hospital, he says, so that they could go to his home in New Orleans to be married.

Before making the trip they thought to rest for a few days at Coney Island. Last night Mrs. Close was found in the insane ward of Bellevue Hospital, where she has been since last Thursday. She was found by a policeman near a boat house on the Bronx River at 182d street. She will be sent to the hospital at Central Islip this morning.

Smith and Mrs. Close had rooms on the same floor of the Coney Island hotel. On Tuesday night Smith says he felt sick and went to bed early. In the morning he awoke late and was told by a clerk that Mrs. Close was not up yet. Repeated knocking on her bedroom door failed to bring any response. The door was opened and it was evident that she had not slept there all night.

The police were notified. Smith says he has walked the streets constantly since then in search of Mrs. Close. Smith stopped policemen whom he met on the streets so often that he became familiar to them and some interested in her case sufficiently to make inquiries about the woman to persons on their beats.

Smith ran out of money to continue the search. Mrs. Close has a charge of her savings. He told his tale to acting Capt. Charlie Faxon of the Coney Island police, who loaned him enough money to get a bit to eat here and there and to cover trolley rides in search for the missing woman.

Last night Lieut. Lewis of the Coney Island station got word that a woman named Margaret Close had been taken to Bellevue on Thursday night. She had no money, it was said.

Dr. Gregory in Bellevue said the woman seemed constantly in fear of something and appeared to be afraid that the north pole was going to come up through the ward floor and kill her. At other times she rather loudly told of her experience as a nurse in the Hudson River Hospital for the Insane. She talked of Coney Island, Poughkeepsie, Lockport, and her trunk that lay in the freight car of the Grand Central station in readiness for the trip to New Orleans. She and Smith were to take train for his home there this morning.

When asked just what peculiar form her insanity took, if any, Dr. Gregory replied that she was "crazy crazy." The case was not extraordinary in fear of nothing.

Some one in the Hudson River Hospital for the Insane said last night that it was true that both Smith and Mrs. Close had been employed there. They said that Mrs. Close had been subject to hysterical fits.

GO SLOW ON APPROPRIATIONS.

Gen. Bixby Cautions Moderation in Estimates for Harbor Improvements.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. Brig. Gen. William H. Bixby, chief of engineers, has determined to discourage agitation for extraordinary expenditures for river and harbor projects. Estimates already submitted for public works of this character call for appropriations aggregating $50,000,000. Many of these estimates are said to be all out of proportion and before they reach Congress they will be cut to the bone by Gen. Bixby and his associates.

Speaking of the demand for river and harbor appropriations Gen. Bixby said: "Newspapers can aid immensely in the preparation of the next river and harbor bill by urging conservative estimates for projects. A yearly river and harbor bill is greatly to be desired, but if the newspapers insist upon their particularity in getting all that the most enthusiastic advocate of waterways improvements desires the bill will become so large that its passage is out of the question."

Now that the committees of Congress dealing with waterways have gone on record as favoring a yearly river and harbor bill it behooves the people and the press to counsel moderation in appropriations to the end that the bill may clearly establish the yearly principle of a river and harbor budget.

If the Vice-President received such a telegram he does not intend that his hand shall be forced by any charge made by former Assemblyman Hart, between whom and Mr. Sherman there is a decided lack of harmony on political matters.

The Vice-President refuses absolutely to discuss the subject of the alleged telegram, as he does other portions of Mr. Hart's speech, in which the former assemblyman charged him with double crossing. Hart and Roosevelt in landing the temporary chairmanship of the State convention.

As to Mr. Hart's charge that the Vice-President produced any evidence he may have that President Taft approved his selection as temporary chairman, Mr. Sherman does not appear to consider it seriously, even though Mr. Hart in his speech, which followed by only a few hours his conference with Col. Roosevelt, stated that such remarks as he made were made advisedly.

The Vice-President is entirely undisturbed by the charges and counter charges which are flying about over the heads of the old guard for the temporary chairmanship and is enjoying his holiday at Big Moose in the Adirondacks to the full extent.

It may be stated that up to the present time he has not given serious consideration to the suggestion that in the interest of party harmony he retire from the temporary chairmanship in favor of Col. Roosevelt. However on this subject, as on all others pertaining to the mixup in State politics, Mr. Sherman is not flying into print, presenting on the theory that discussion of any of the various phases of the controversy at this time will not heal any breaches or promote harmony.

POLICEMAN GANGSHOT MAY DIE

LITTLE CHANCE OF GETTING MAN WHO SHOT HIM.

Gorman and Three Other Cops Had Hold of Three Men, When One Began Shooting From Dark Doorway—Same Gang Has Beaten Up Cops Before.

Thomas Gorman, the policeman from the East Fifty-first street station who was shot in East Forty-eighth street on Saturday night while the police were scattering a noisy growler gang, is still in Flower Hospital and is said to be in a dying condition. Father Murphy of St. Agnes's Roman Catholic Church was called to administer the last rites of his Church soon after Gorman reached the hospital.

With Gorman in the hospital is James Shields of 333 East Forty-eighth street, who was shot during the fight. At first it was thought that he was only slightly wounded. At the hospital it was found that he had two bullets in his left leg and one in his back. He, too, will probably die.

The bullets which hit Shields were fired by his own friends and were intended for Policeman Beron. When the police charged the gang fled with the exception of Shields and his brother Hugh and a third man. Policemen Gorman, Beron and Schoenholtz closed with the three. Gorman was frisking Hughie Shields when he was shot in the back. The man who shot him ran into a nearby doorway.

Bullets began to fly from this doorway and Policeman Beron, who had grabbed James Shields, swung his prisoner between himself and the source of the firing. Shields gave no sign that he was hit and in the confusion following the shooting of Gorman he got away. So did Schoenholtz's man.

Shields was caught later after twenty-five reserves had come from the East Fifty-first street station and begun to comb the neighborhood.

The reserves arrested two men, William Coleo, who said he lived in New Jersey, and John Mannion, a plumber's helper of 340 East Forty-eighth street. Mannion was thought to be the one who shot Gorman, but Gorman couldn't identify him, and he was discharged yesterday the Yorkville police court. Coleo was fined $5.

Twenty-five or thirty shots were fired during Saturday night's fight. The gang that gave little is part of the Forty Thieves.

They are the inheritors of Corcoran's Racket.

Capt. Lantry, who has been in charge of the East Fifty-first street station, has held the youngsters down with an iron hand. His removal last Friday was the chance they wanted to start war upon the police.

The neighborhood, Forty-eighth street and Second avenue, has long been known as unsafe after dark. Two policemen have recently been taken to the hospital in consequence of beatings they got there. A month ago the gang held up a Second avenue street car and robbed the passengers in wild west fashion. They escaped along the waterfront.

The police watched the hospitals yesterday and arrested three men.

A man who said he was John Kolby, a bricklayer, living at 311 East Eighty-eighth street, went to Roosevelt Hospital. He had a bullet wound in the ankle. Lieut. McMullen quizzed him, but the man said he had been shot in a fight in Jersey City.

Last night John Walsh, who said he was a bricklayer of 114 East 109th street, and John Confray, a plasterer of 105 Park avenue, called on Kolby. Both refused to talk to McMullen.

Kolby was made a prisoner in the hospital and Walsh and Confray were locked up at Headquarters.

SHERMAN ON THE STUMP.

To Speak in Illinois for Congressman McKinley and Other Standpatters.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. Vice-President Sherman is to take the stump in Illinois this week in behalf of Congressman William B. McKinley, standpat candidate for reelection in the Nineteenth district. The announcement was made to-day at the headquarters of the Republican Congressional committee, where the Vice-President's speaking tour is being arranged.

From Illinois Mr. Sherman will journey to Missouri, where he will speak in several Congressional districts. Other dates are being arranged for him in the Southwest.

Although McKinley has no opposition at the primaries Mr. Sherman will make two speeches for him, one at the Weldon Springs chauntiqua and the other at Decatur in the evening.

The Vice-President will reach Chicago Saturday morning. In Mr. Sherman's first speech in the Congressional campaign he is expected to voice the Administration's attitude in the impending primary contests between regulars and insurgents.

SHERMAN WON'T ANSWER HART.

Declines to Say Anything About Alleged Telegram in Roosevelt's Behalf.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 21. Vice-President Sherman declines to be drawn into any discussion of the assertion made yesterday by former Assemblyman Merwin K. Hart during the course of a speech the latter delivered here to the effect that the Vice-President had suppressed a telegram he received from President Taft in which he, the President, expressed the wish that no move toward selecting a temporary chairman of the Republican State convention be made without the fullest consultation with Col. Roosevelt.

If the Vice-President received such a telegram he does not intend that his hand shall be forced by any charge made by former Assemblyman Hart, between whom and Mr. Sherman there is a decided lack of harmony on political matters.

The Vice-President refuses absolutely to discuss the subject of the alleged telegram, as he does other portions of Mr. Hart's speech, in which the former assemblyman charged him with double crossing. Hart and Roosevelt in landing the temporary chairmanship of the State convention.

As to Mr. Hart's charge that the Vice-President produced any evidence he may have that President Taft approved his selection as temporary chairman, Mr. Sherman does not appear to consider it seriously, even though Mr. Hart in his speech, which followed by only a few hours his conference with Col. Roosevelt, stated that such remarks as he made were made advisedly.

The Vice-President is entirely undisturbed by the charges and counter charges which are flying about over the heads of the old guard for the temporary chairmanship and is enjoying his holiday at Big Moose in the Adirondacks to the full extent.
